

Prophecies - The Family Prayer Center - 2014

Prophecy140209-2 February 9th 2014

Soaking Times and Saturations

I'm doing this primarily; these soaking times and saturations of my spirit; I can't get over to you enough that my heart is out there. You've been asking me for years and then the cloud comes; a lot of test and trials and tribulations and things that attach your body and mind and your finances and a lot of different things cloud those things which were most important to you before you went into the trial and that was seeing your families brought in. I'm still out there working on that prayer but am visiting you in these saturations and causing you to believe that the believability factor that I really care for you and will lavish my love on you, comes to another place; that it comes to a place where you can recline in my agape; that you can recline in my love and know that everything that I do is for your benefit and everything I provided in my word is for you. I'm getting you past, I'm getting you past you if you will, because I really, really want to answer those prayers of your families being born again and brought into this harvest saith the Spirit of Grace.