It is in the Exchange

For the more that I have of you, the more that I can give of myself to you. For I've held nothing back neither presently am I holding anything back. When you begin to yield to me spirit, soul and body, you get over yourself to me, then I exchange; it's a continual exchange in the spirit and I exchange my strength for your weaknesses and bring forward everything to light that I said that you were. Stand, stand continually in that place of exchanging your weaknesses for my strength, saith the Spirit of Grace. For I desire, I desire a people, I desire a people that will exchange and give me all of themselves. On the other side of the exchange is the noblest of the miracles that you described as revival, saith the Spirit of Grace, and think not within yourself that it takes multitudes and multitudes of those who will make this journey. For I have proven through my word, search my word, prove, prove this. If I found those individuals who would make the stand then I would use them as a gateway into the earth. I would use them as a channel in which I would pour out of my Spirit through them. That would touch great people groups and nations, saith the Spirit of the Lord. So each one of you, think of yourself, think of yourself as a candidate; the catalyst that could single-handedly bring about great transformation in your generation, saith the Spirit of Grace. It is in the exchange; it is becoming dead and deader and deader and coming to places where really nothing is left in you. Nothing is left. You don't even resemble, you don't even resemble the person that you once were. That gives me full license, full access to bring forth through you to others and to great, great people groups, saith the Spirit of Grace.
