

Prophecies - The Family Prayer Center - 2017

Prophecy170719 July 19th 2017

I'm Pleased Utterly Pleased

I am really, really pleased with you, saith the Spirit of Grace. In the way that you handled yourself the last couple of services in your fathers house for most of these days grieve my spirit, saith the Lord. When my spirit is quenched then my spirit is grieved but understand this that his grieving is not on the basis of how man understands offense, for he grieves for the one that has shut him out. He grieves for the lost that they will suffer in their life as a result of not inviting him in and allowing him to do the work that he desires to do on their behalf for them, it's always for them. So much of my church is grieving my spirit. It's grieving my spirit because they quench any inroad that he would have to come and change and maneuver their life into levels of peace, deliverance and healing for the body's. No this these saturating times that you enjoy many more are available and will come. Stay in a posture in your spirit a disposition in your soul that invites me and waits on me and is willing to go in. Do not dictate it. Do not come saying we will make this service like the last. Just be open, saith the Spirit of Grace. When the word comes and the word is being preached line upon line and my mind is brought with instruction, that is as valuable to me as the times when my spirit refreshes your soul. You feel it in a different way because it comes with a refreshing and a cleansing and saturation and I'm pleased, utterly pleased. And that provide something for you that nothing else can but so is that truth in every other aspect of the walk of the spirit and the walk of power. As I bring forth my word and bring forth the reality of my truth in your life. Do not as I said try to dictate and say this is the way we'll have it. But follow me for I'll come every season. I'll come and I'll come and I'll come. Be open, saith the Spirit of Grace. Provide the opportunity and quench not the spirit and despise not prophesying but allow my spirit to come on every turn. You'll grow and mature and you'll have the wherewithal. The bread; you'll have the bread to give to the nations, saith the Spirit of Grace. I am well pleased, saith the Spirit of Grace and your Father.