

Prophecies – The Family Prayer Center – 2006

Prophecy060101b – Jan 1, 2006 Get Ready for Change

Get ready for change, says the Spirit of the Lord. For change will not be by the might of man. It will not be by the wisdom of your own intellect, but know this, says the Spirit of Grace, that I will visit you in your dark hour and even now have begun that. I will follow you home. I will raise you up. I will put you to bed. You will wake up in a different atmosphere.

Know that even before the natural things change around you that something inside of you is changing now, says the Spirit of Grace. If you will allow this to come to fullness, if you will nurture it and feed it daily, you will find that like the freshness of the flower that grows and like a Green Bay tree that spreads its wings over the earth, your world—the thing that you call your life—is changing by My Spirit, says the Spirit of Grace.

You should be experiencing right now a healing in your mind, not only in your minds but in your body. That's where He was going with it—He wanted to say that right now in your body, there is a healing power, just by some of those things coming off of you.

Know this, says the Spirit of Grace, that many things that you have walked past in the past have come back again to try and haunt you and force its will on your flesh. Even the desires and some of the pressing things that have come against your flesh to try to divert you, know this, that you will find that in the days ahead, in the next short hours, you will find that those things have lifted off of you, and you begin to feel a relief, and an old-time Presence and power will come back on you, says the Spirit of Grace.

For many of you have reasoned, and you have thought because you have seen no results and you have fought, and it seems there has been no results—you have thought that I was angry at you, angry and mad at mistakes. Know this: These things that you are asking for have not come to pass not because I am angry or have walked away or [been] displeased. Know that surely, surely if My Son gave His life for you, you surely have not fallen out of grace with Me. For you are, as I have said in My Word, the apple of My eye, the sincere desire of My heart.

Know this, that these things have not been happening because standing between you and the thing that you are asking for has been the destroyer. But you know now—you know with all sincerity how to take care of these things. Take care of them and watch Me come, says the Spirit of Grace.

Expect things to change for you—strong change—this week, even this day.