Prophecy060312a – Mar 12, 2006 All Things Belong to Me

Hold your ministries in great regard, and yet hold them loosely, says the Lord. Let no man say, “This is mine,” for all things are of the Lord. For in the days ahead, many will be turned this way and turned that way, and it will all be a working of the Lord. And the expanse will be great.

Do not say, “This is my place, and I hold it for myself.” Know this: All of you are called and chosen of the Lamb. All of you will wear the robes of righteousness in that day and will be crowned every man severally as He wills. Know that because of the expanse and where you are going in My Spirit, regard everything that I have given you to be of the utmost, but also continue to know that it belongs to Me and not to you. For many will come in your space. You must train them to take your place that you may go on further.

Hold nothing. Hold nothing. Let everything be always loosely fitted in My hands that I may turn them as I will. Nothing belongs to man. All things belong to Me. And when you do [this,] you will find that great will be the multiplication of the disciples in this house, says the Spirit of Grace.
