

Prophecies – The Family Prayer Center – 2006

Prophecy060517c– May 17, 2006 I Will Build Upon Your Words

The Spirit of the Lord would say unto you that many of you understand authority, and yet the enemy of your soul has negotiated for you to be quiet and to [inhabit] a place of dormancy where you would not release the things I have taught you. Know this: It is an act of your will. But begin to declare before Me, says the Lord, declare those things that be not as though they were. Say the things that you will have Me do for you even in the days ahead, says the Lord, and I will build upon your words. And I will bring faith to your heart, and I will cause those things that be not to become those things that are, says the Spirit of the Lord.

Begin to say those things that you desire to see changed, those desires that you desire in My Spirit for Me to come, and say these things like, “Father, this is who I am in Christ Jesus. This is what You have made me in Christ Jesus!” And know that the more that you begin to declare who you are, I will begin to bring forth the full image of the thing inside of you, says the Spirit of Grace.