

Prophecies – The Family Prayer Center – 2006

Prophecy060908 –Sep 8, 2006 Peace Backed Up by Peace

On this path that I have placed you on, you will find that as the days go on and as you continue to pray out these mysteries, and you offer up the sacrifice of praise from out of My spirit, you will find that your capacity for fear and torment lessens and lessens and lessens, that you will find that you will come to a place in the road where, having turned and looked back, you will hardly be able to remember even faintly. As a dream in the night will it seem the days of yesteryear, even if only a moment ago. When you cross that line, you will feel as if those things were years in your past.

You will know that My love that you are attaining to in these forms of worship is casting out all fear, and know that this is the baptism of the Father. This is His desire that you live out the rest of your life absent from all fear and absent from all torment, says the Spirit of Grace. Know that this is the comfort that you are comforted with wherewith you are able to go and comfort those who are in affliction.

For you yourself will be high and lifted up above those things that presently and oftentimes have had you diverted and your attention, and you fought certain battles, but know that it is the Father's utmost desire to bring you into this place, to this haven of rest. It is a constant place. It is a place within a place. It is peace backed up by peace. It is a peace—it is a peace within a peace.

It's a peace that is backed up by a peace like what I am experiencing is peace. But it feels like it's so constant, so stable, so conquering of everything in my future that it feels like—this is what He wants you to know—this is the baptism of this kind of peace, it will not go away. You can rest in peace like what I am getting, and what I am receiving will not go away. It's a constant.

Have you ever received something, and you were happy about it, but you could hardly rest in it because you were wondering, "How long is this going to last?" This is the peace that is backed up by peace. It is the wheel within the wheel, because you are not only going to walk in peace, you are not going to worry about whether or not this peace will stay.

It will be something that will be so quiet on the inside of you that you will not even have an argument whether or not it's going to stay because you will not even have those kinds of recollections. It will not even dawn on you, like, "Is this going to leave?" This is the peace within the peace. Its peace backed up by peace. What's backing up this peace? Peace! What's backing up that peace? What is the outside barrier of that? Another layer off peace!

These things are found in worship, says the Spirit of Grace. These things are not filled with trepidation as if to say, "This is the moment I have waited for. Oh, I hope this doesn't go away. I hope this doesn't change. I hope this doesn't evaporate." Know that these things found in Me are a constant. They are something that you are supposed to be able to put your full weight on and not expect them to change next week, says the Spirit of Grace.

Many have equated peace with circumstantial things. Know, surely, that the things of the earth will continue to disintegrate, and things will continue to get worse, but I have promised that in the midst of darkness, yes, even the growing darkness, that you would be a burning, shining light. What would that speak of in this hour? That those who have no peace and those seeing you also surrounded by the same circumstances, yet the way that you handle it and the way that you think and the way that you are not shaken, not disturbed, not moved off of your peace—this will be that light in the middle of darkness. And this is available to the least of you, says the Spirit of Grace.