Prophecy061227 – Dec 27, 2006 You Will Know It Was Worth the Climb

You will find the climb to the top was much more, it was much more: places of training, places where you felt that you could go on no further. The sureness and the steadfastness of the view from the top will render you with absoluteness inside of you. An absoluteness and a certainty that when you come to this place where I am bringing you to, you will know that it was worth the climb to get to the place that you see these things from My vantage point, says the Spirit of Grace.

You said, “If the climb to the top is this hard, how will I hold the ground once I get there?” Know this: The battle is in the place that you are going, but once you stand in the place that I will bring you to, you must know that it will be established ground. It will be a wide spot. It will be a place where there will be plenty of room to go and do, and live and be, and provision for My revival and the outpouring that I am asking you to stand for. It will not be a narrow place. It will not be a place that will render you as vulnerable to this or that or the other, but it will be a wide place. A place that you will have a sureness, a confidence, a security, an absolute sense of security for everything that is underneath you that surrounds you, as in family, as in those things that I have given you to steward in this life.

Know that the fight is for the place that I am asking you to go. If you will go there, it is a place in Me that is beyond anything that you can imagine, as in confidence and in assurance and in a surety, says the Spirit of Grace.
