

Prophecies – The Family Prayer Center – 2007

Prophecy070121b – Jan 21, 2007 Enroll in the Higher Level of Understanding

You have been trained by a long, long strand of circumstances. You have been sent to college—to school—to learn that you cannot advance any further because of continuing episodes with the same old, same old. But enter in, says the Spirit of Grace. Enroll now in the higher level of education and understanding. For I will bring you aside, and I will teach you with My wisdom, for I have not even begun to show you the things that I want to show you.

Enroll now in the higher level, the higher college or university of understanding. Come unto Me all you that are heavy laden by tasks and burdened by circumstances, and know that I will give you rest, says the Spirit of Grace. And think not that you have exhausted Me or exhausted My wisdom or My grace or My authority or My power. For what is available to you has not yet been seen to this generation. It was known in past generations, but this is what I am asking you to do. As you spend time in My Presence, I can bring you to where you can begin even now to fathom what is available for you. And in that, you will find, oh, that the things that you once called hard, difficult—“I don’t know if I can do this”—you will mount up with wings, says the Spirit of Grace. You will soar with eagles. You will run and not find yourself weary in this race.