

Prophecies – The Family Prayer Center – 2007

Prophecy070124b – Jan 24, 2007 The Moment You Pray Something Happens

You want to get Him in your ship? You want to get Him in your house? You want to get Him in your stead fighting your battle with you? Just lift your hands [in worship]—if you could see what a difference you make, then you would be all the more ambitious in prayer.

For you see on the day of arrival, and you rejoice therein, but if you could see what I see and know that these things take place in people that you pray for—if I could do it in a day, and you would rejoice in the same, I would. But because they have a will which I have to work with like I worked with yours, it takes seasons, it takes planning, and it takes orchestration. Oh, but if you would rejoice even having not seen, you would know that you would speed the process up all the more. So know that the moment you pray something begins to happen. Something is released out of My Presence.

Know that I see things way beyond—I see it from the beginning to the end, and I will bring you to a place like Me. I will sit you together in Heavenly places. Those of you that are coming to that place, you will find it of the utmost urgency to rejoice with Me because you will see it like I see, says the Spirit of grace.