

Prophecies – The Family Prayer Center – 2007

Prophecy070207 – Feb 7, 2007 I Will Show You Things to Come

I, with words of much comfort and peace, do desire to speak to My people. For if they will open up their spirit through this avenue, they will understand how much easier it is for Me to come and give them what I see concerning everything that is to come. For have I not said in My Word, ask of Me and I will show you things to come, great and notable things to come?

Know that it is My pleasure to open up the wisdom for the future, and the understanding for your life I will lay out in front of you. These things are the mysteries that I desire to reveal to you, so that in the days ahead, you will know at every juncture and every crossroad that you come to—there will be an absolute assurance inside of you because before you ever get to where you are going, I will come, and I will give you the wisdom, and I will give you the insight, and you will see in front of you the wisdom before you get there. And you will see, as My Son saw, the clarity of victory in all things, even when the mirage of the enemy, the smoke screen that he sets up in front of you to beat you into submission—you will say, “I saw this before it got here, and I saw the victory through His eyes,” says the Spirit of Grace.