Prophecy070601 – Jun 1, 2007 There Is No Select Group in Me

I am with each of you as each one of you walks your road to Emmaus. And as a friend sticketh closer than a brother, I walk beside you, every one of you, and on all of your paths each day because I am God, because I am your Lord, your Master, and also your glorified Christ. I walk down every pathway with each of you, and as a Friend, I commune with you on this level, and you receive from Me personally. As you come together and rehearse these things, know that I bring the fullness of everything that I am, for every one of you having a part and sharing a part of everything that I have given you become one—all parts coming together to become one in Me, says the Lord. For in the days ahead more and more of this will increase. Know that this is limitless.

Do not make the mistake that many have made before you, for I warn you in advance, and so taking heed, you will get past, for I desire to do these things among all. For many in times past have seen Me come to a few, and felt selected, as if they were an inner circle. Know this, that what I do among one or two, I desire to do among all, says the Spirit of Grace.

So as I lead you down these paths, invite everyone inside your circle. Bring everyone that will thirst and hunger, hide nothing from anyone who desires, for there is no secret place that I do not desire to come out of and give to all, says the Spirit of God. For there is no select group in Me, for all who desire Me will find the secret chamber of My resting, says the Spirit of Grace. For I have given this to a few to steward and to run ahead, but it was not so you could run ahead and lose those who were trailing behind. For at times, I will cause you to turn around and invite others to come up to the place where you are at, and when they are coming, help them along their way. Encourage them and disciple them, for I have given you this grace to bring others up to this place as well.

And in the days ahead, as I have said, there will be an increase of intercessors, and there will be an increase of those who will steward My Word and My gifts and My anointings and the giving, and you are the ones whom I have chosen who will bring up these other ones, but you will hide nothing from them. For what I teach you in the secret chamber, you will bring forth and give away freely, freely, says the Spirit of Grace. For in not too many days, what is done among the few of you will increase among many dozens, and the dozens will turn overnight to hundreds, and then the hundreds will multiply into thousands.

Oh, but know this: You will never be lost in the maze of the multitude or ever feel like you are only a number. Know this, that also what is part of this outpouring and always part of the Father's heart in revival is that none lose their individual identity, but they feel as special among the thousands as they would have in what they called the core group or the two or the three, says the Spirit of Grace. You will feel just as individual and just as much a priority or brought up among that place of living inside the selection of My Grace—you will feel that atmosphere in the thousands as much as you do here tonight, says the Spirit of Grace.

This is what I will build on: My Word and My Spirit. And as you disciple one and two and three, they will multiply themselves many, many times over. You will find this joy. You will find a family atmosphere when there are too many for you to count. You will not just meet in one place—many buildings, many buildings will house this revival, for “one” Church will return to the planet. And it will be housed in many different cities, many different states, many counties, and many countries, but you will have your part in this part of the world.
