Prophecy070606 – Jun 6, 2007 That Place of My Love Is a Harbor

You will find this is your haven of rest, your safest safeguard, says the Spirit of Grace, for nothing else will suffice this place nor come close to it. and when all else and everything has been tried and nothing seems to work, know that My love never, never, never fails, says the Spirit of Grace. So baptize yourself in that love, and when nothing makes sense, know that I will come and refresh your thinking so that you come on a higher level. For the enemy of your soul, that great divider and spoiler, know that he once rebelled against this love and had no part in it, and now it has come to him to be his greatest adversary and destruction against all that he knows. For when you dwell in Me and My love dwells in you, he will find no avenue of recourse in you, says the Spirit of Grace.

Is there a place of invincibility as a human being? Oh, have I not said he who dwells in Me and I in him and we together in the Father, in that place no man can pluck you out of that place? For there is a safeguard, and there is a harbor, and there is a place where the enemy cannot come, and it is in that place of My love, says the Spirit of Grace. So seek earnestly and diligently to know Me in this place of intimacy, and you will find that in Me your invincibility against all that he throws at you comes on line, and your confidence goes to another level in My Grace.
