

Prophecies – The Family Prayer Center – 2008

Prophecy080530b – May 30, 2008 It Is in Hunger That Passion Is Birthed

To the question of the heart. “Is life supposed to be this hard?” The answer is most assuredly “No.” Keep asking, keep knocking, keep seeking, My child, for it is in hunger that passion is birthed. For when you are satisfied, you more than likely will not seek, will not ask, and will not knock. So come away with Me.

Daily come away with Me and give yourself over to the operation of praying in other tongues and in private worship, and you WILL be changed. You will be transformed. You will be enveloped in a place of atmosphere where all things ARE made new and all things ARE possible.

Seek Me, know Me, trust Me, and I will see you through to the place of rest—this place you desire, the place where life is more than a desperate clinging to a hope that life can be more, that you can have more of Me, more of life abundant.

Know Me and know Peace. Know Me and know Joy. Know Me and know life as I created you to enjoy, in joy unspeakable and full of glory.