

Prophecies – The Family Prayer Center – 2008

Prophecy081102 – Nov 2, 2008 Joy Becomes Your Strength

Your rejoicing, your rejoicing will not be in vain, for know this: Your rejoicing is the joy of the Lord, that which I experience to receive your praise, and know that My joy becomes your strength, says the Spirit of Grace. For know this, that the dancing in the streets will be seen and will be because of the great harvest that is presently about to come, says the Spirit of Grace.

Have I not said most recently that great pools, great reservoirs of grace that have mounted up in the heavens as a result of those who have given Me authority are about to be released? And know that time is now—that time is already begun, says the Spirit of Grace. So do not think that this is just a high water mark or a high point, what you are feeling now, but know this, that this is a wave of My Presence and glory that will give way to another wave, which will give way to another wave, which will continue on until the harvest is made complete, says the Spirit of Grace.