Prophecy090524 – May 24, 2009 Wake Up

This is why I plead with My Church in these last days. I beg of you, understand My words. Wake up and understand the season. For this is the very reason why that you hear more and more of the songs of Heaven speaking of My coming. This is why those who penned the words are hearing the sound of My Spirit in their spirit because I am bringing Heaven and earth together, says the Spirit of God. And now is the time to understand that that time is upon you, says the Spirit of God.

Prepare yourself as a bride well-adorned to meet her coming husband. Know this, that the day and hour is soon to change. Set not your affections upon the things of this earth. Did I not say do not be like those virgins who were caught unaware? But know this, to all those who hear My voice and will prepare their spirit, know this, that there is a sudden work that I will do in this last day, says the Spirit of God

Did I not confirm this in My Word when I said you can be surrounded by a cloud of witnesses? These laid the ground work and witnessed unto you of the coming things, but they obtained not. But know this, that even that first Church was only supposed to be a shadow of the things that I would return for, says the Spirit of Grace.

The reason why My Church is so asleep and the reason why My words sound like foreign words to them [is] like a child that you try to wrestle out of a bed of sleep, and they hear you, but they can hardly acknowledge you because your words are not being spoken to senses that are awake. Know this, that the vast, mass majority of My Church is asleep under the guise of “cares of this world,” says the Spirit of Grace.

You can't hear My words and respond adequately often, and most often because your senses are underneath the cares of this world, and your senses have been so bogged down by rehearsing the things that have come upon you. You say, “Yes, yes,” but I didn't ask for these things. I did not say that you were the one that brought them, but did I not say that you were seated together with Me in places? says the Spirit of Grace.

When you wait to come to My house to begin to gear your senses to hear from Me, you have already let those things set upon you, day after day, night after night, and even as you sleep, your senses went to sleep under the thoughts of the cares of this world. Then when I try to wake you up, I'm having to get past cares and thoughts that you brought in with you, and thinking “God will You help me? Will You help me?” Know this; My help was way beyond this moment. My help was the moment that you decide to call out to Me and decide that you can be seated together with Me in Heavenly places, never to be bogged down or “cared” down with the burden of thought, says the Spirit of Grace.

So when I say, Wake up, it's not for just this moment in time. You can't come out of a slumber that you've practiced. You can't come out of a slumber that you've practiced, and you've practiced very well, says the Spirit of Grace. But know this: To those who will run free from all care and see My provision spirit, soul, and body in their life will be those who practice diligently and build for Me inside of them a memorial—rehearsing always who they are, where they are from, and where they are going, says the Spirit of Grace.

When I said, "Wake up," you could only wake up to the level that you've allowed Me to begin to speak to you, says the Spirit of God. But know this, that I am coming to anyone who will say, "Yes Lord." Anyone who will say "Yes, Lord" and will practice these things outside of My house and live in them and work in them and go to sleep in them, know this: You will be well awake in these last days, says the Spirit of Grace.

He reasons with you like you are His child and like we reason with each other, saying words like this: "Have you ever been in a place and they said or he said or she said or they said to you something, and you nodded as to acknowledge the statement, and then days later, hours later, perhaps weeks, it dawned on you what was being said and what you said that you acknowledged of truth, but you realized the moment—having really understood the truth, that you did not at the moment understand? Know this, that I love you, and I am prophesying to you through [your] drunken senses. For did I not say be not drunk with the wine of this world, but be ye filled with the Spirit?"

Did I not say that he goes about—the enemy—as a roaring lion seeking whom he may devour? Therefore, I said, "Be sober, be vigilant. For I know that I am speaking [to you] through [your] drunken senses that are trying to acknowledge the truth of what you hear. But know this: The more that you worship Me and the more that you come to Me in these things, you will find you brighten up and brighten up until there is not a part of you that is not desensitized, but everything comes under the full persuasion of this—I AM who I said I am, says the Spirit of Grace.

I would say to you, just as a child learns to ride a bike, you will learn these things that I was just talking about, about practicing. And as you practice, it will be easy because My Holy Spirit will be teaching you, and not only will it be easy, but as you practice, and it gets easier and easier, just like riding a bike, once you reach that—you will never forget. I say this to comfort you.
