

Prophecies – The Family Prayer Center – 2010

Prophecy100516bDM – May 16, 2010 You Are Set Free

The captives are set free this morning. The Lord is free to set the captives free. You are free right now of worry, fret. Anything that has come against you this morning, the Lord has come against it this morning and set you free. If you have ears to hear this morning and you will heed unto this call, the Lord said that He has set you free.

If it is an ailment, it has been the enemy holding you back. Fear holding you back, dread holding you back captive. You have been held captive in your own thinking and on your own mind. Your finances are set free. You are set free this morning. You are set free this morning.

You are set free this morning. The Lord has come and driven away the enemy. He has driven away the enemy, and you are set free this morning. He has set you free today, today—today, not tomorrow.

Today is the day of salvation. He has set you free today. Today! Today, you are set free! You only have to come forward and say, “This is me,” and you will be set free.