

Prophecies – The Family Prayer Center – 2010

Prophecy100523d – May 23, 2010 Joyful War

This is a time and a season for joyful war, says the Spirit of Grace. For many of you will find places that you will penetrate past, lines of defense that the flesh and the enemy has garrisoned against you in days gone by. And you will push past with a rush of strength. As David said, “I have been empowered to run through a troop and leap over a wall,” says the Spirit.

So take this time, and this is for all of you: Take this time to pull up personal prophecies and words spoken over you in days gone by, things that you have recorded and things I have placed in your heart. Did I not say in My Word, did I not speak through My apostle and say “war”—“war” unto Timothy? War with the prophecies that went before you, says the Spirit of Grace.

Now is the time to relish those things of which I have spoken to you of yesteryear and presently. Take them and stand and confess and say unto Me, “Thou are not a man that You could lie; Your Word has been exalted above Your Name.” And know this: I will take those things and bring you into a great inheritance, says the Spirit of Grace.