

Prophecies – The Family Prayer Center – 2010

Prophecy100919c – Sep 19, 2010 They Will Know You by Your Love

This is what I have offered you, and if you will prove Me in these last days, you'll begin to pray for the little ones and then offer a pray in public to those who are hurting—know this, that I will come, and I will prove Myself to be on the line that My Word describes. In this last day, you will find a great separation, but not only will you be empowered to walk in great strength, but the world will see you, and they will know you by your love. They will know you by that which you call yourself: brothers.

Know this, that I long to come. I long to come and receive unto Myself these things that I left. So do these works and know that you have One who has been left to empower you and guide you into all truth, says the Spirit of Grace.