Prophecy101017 – Oct 17, 2010 Fight for Your Loved Ones

Many of you judge yourself inadequately and wrongfully, because often you let your faults and your occasional sin stand between you and doing what is righteous for your loved ones. Know this, that you who are inside of Me, you who are inside the blood, that I will deal with you as a Father and patiently deal with you as a son or a daughter to bring you along, but know this, that even in your struggles, you have authority with your mouth to say something and change the course of destiny of those of your lost loved ones who are out there, who need in this life an intercessor.

He said the reason why the enemy used your loved ones who are closest to you to, we call it, “get your goat,” take your peace, the reason why he does that is because you are the one—you’re the one as an intercessor who must stand between them with the blood of the Lamb, [between them] and going to a devil’s hell. So know this, that if your offense cuts you off from praying for them, then the work of the enemy is accomplished, says the Spirit of Grace.

Know that a battle is fought in the Spirit for your loved ones even now. This is what He said: Many of you are buying into a lie that your loved ones, because they had an experience way back, way back, that they are okay. The Lord said, Don’t buy into that lie. Don’t buy into eternal salvation whereas they can go on live their life for years and years, outside of running into perversions, and believe they are eternally sanctified, just because they made a decision twenty-five years ago.

The Lord said you are supposed to intercede for them now like they had never been born again, and hold them up before the Father so that the enemy does not destroy them through you taking a “back-seat” kind of attitude by saying they are okay, they are okay because when they were a child they took care of it. He said you fight for them like it never happened, and it will happen, says the Spirit of Grace.
