

Prophecies – The Family Prayer Center – 2010

Prophecy101107a – Nov 7, 2010 You Live Inside of Prophecy

Oh, He said, rejoice in the hour in which you live, for you live inside of prophecy. You live inside of the words that I have spoken, says the Spirit of Grace. But know this, that the things that I wrote in the last, know that it was not for fear. For men who read it, read it with fear, have not come into My intimacy. For know this: When I said these things will come on the earth, I brought these thing about that you may rejoice and be exceedingly glad, says the Spirit of Grace. Because in those things, right in the middle of them, you will see those things that you have asked Me for from the very beginning. And you will rejoice and be exceedingly glad at the cascade of your loved ones coming back to the things that they once knew, says the Spirit of Grace.

For these are days of prophecy and days of great rejoicing, where the blind will see and the lame will walk, but know this, that I will restore ministries, and I will restore those things that are burnt over and those who seem to have left but come back. And I will come back and bring them up to a place of standing as if they never left, says the Spirit of Grace.

This is a time where saints' prayers have come up for long seasons, and you've been built upon the shoulders of those who have proceeded you, but know this, that you will rejoice and watch things that you will shake your head at and say, "My, when we thought we were receiving, we had only just begun," says the Spirit of Grace.