Anticipate the Change

Anticipate that the change that I am bringing about, for know this, that change comes through familiarity, says the Spirit of Grace. For the same old things that you've proven, even as My servant said, "I cannot go into battle with these, for I have not proven them," and he laid them off, know this, that I will come and change you. I will come and change you and take you to higher places and higher places, but know this, that it'll always be through the familiar path that bears witness, which says that "I've come this far by this path and by all these things that I've proven, and I know that they are of God and by God and for God."

So know this, that I will never take you out of that which I have laid, first, the foundation for. But know this, that many of you are on a journey going higher and higher and higher, and know this, that your surroundings, as you go higher and higher, that you'll be able to reach out and say and test and prove, and say, "Yes, I know that it's from God because it's a familiar place, a familiar avenue and peace by which He speaks." But know this: I will take you into change and great change, for the days ahead are filled with change, says the Spirit of Grace.

Do not fear the wicked one, which in days ahead will rage. For know this, that you have not seen your last battles with him nor have you seen the finest of what he will consider his heydays. But know this, that all those who grow in grace will find out that the stronger he comes and more furious and more of a determination that he comes with that you yourself will have found that, like in an insurance—money in the bank like a bulwark of something that is there—you've been there, and you've done that, and it's a full place. And you know that no matter what he comes with that there's more than enough in reservoir to not only withstand him but to absolutely take ground against that which he's coming with, says the Spirit of Grace.

So take great joy. Take great joy, for the revenues in the Spirit will be of this, that when the enemy comes, many will flee, many who you thought were strong. So set your eyes not upon men nor upon your brethren, for know this, that many will turn this way and that way, and some will regain strength and find themselves through your prayers, but know this, that you do not, do not take any man's standing or falling to be your strength or to be your sign from Me of how strong I am. But run forward in these last days and know that a great fight is ahead, but know that you are more than able to win in these last days.
