

Prophecies – The Family Prayer Center – 2011

Prophecy111026aMJ – Oct 26, 2011

I Am There to Hold You

If you could comprehend how much I love you—I am your Father, and I want you to dwell in My love and dwell in My peace, dwell in My Presence. It doesn't matter the storms that rage round about you. If you would get into the center place of My love and be there and know how much I love you and allow My peace to flood you, you would just hold your head high no matter what comes your way. So know that I love you, and I am so pleased when you come and spend time with Me, when you come and sit in My Presence.

When you come and worship Me, I am there to hold you, to love you, give you My peace, and give you everything and meet all your needs. So come, come, come sit upon My lap and allow Me to lavish My love and peace and grace and all that I have upon you.