

Prophecies - The Family Prayer Center - 2013

Prophecy130213 February 13th 2013

A Last Day Calling

I have called you as a body of believers to a last day calling saith the Spirit of Grace. Know this that the joy of a Lord is your strength saith the Spirit of Grace. Let my joy that comes up in private worship; those times that you spend with me; let it begin to dictate the course of your day and your miracles that I have prescribed for you in your life. For my joy in the spirit will bring about these miracles saith the Spirit of Grace. For I come to light your light and to light your path. For know that the path of life brings forth miracles and multiple miracles saith the Spirit of Grace. As you learn this walk of faith and you learn not to walk by sight not your feelings, but I say there is a deeper, inward witness by which I ask you to live by and that witness witnesses joy in the midst of all opposition; know that in my joy, in that place there is a place of permanency for you; there's a place of no change, no change by those circumstances around about you; but change for those things in and of themselves; I will bring about change saith the Spirit of Grace. So rejoice in me and know that in you're rejoicing that you'll bring about that joy and that joy will bring about the miracles saith the Spirit of Grace.