This is the Day of Renewal

For many times a word is offered to you and you hear the encouragement of the Lord say I do a new work and hope is inspired in your spirit; and often times I can, I can move in to a place and do something fresh and anew; rekindle those things that have come from a place that once being on fire and have been quenched to a low burning ember but know this that even when I'm able to do those things which start afresh and anew, know that everything was always provided at the cross saith the Spirit of the Lord; so for those of you who are waiting on something to shake you, to stir you, to change you know this that time is here now saith the Spirit of the Lord; do not wait for another day to move in; Do not wait for another time to claim your place in the promise of inheritance saith the Spirit of Grace. For do you not know that I'm able to move into every area and arena of your life move into your body and begin to cause change to take place but mostly that place I desire is to assure you of my love as your Heavenly Father and bring forth a place inside of you that's stronger than all the test and trials that you're going through right now says the Spirit of the Lord. Know this that many wait for change as if to say when this gets over then I'll be fresh anew and I'll be able to come forth with an encouragement; Do not wait for the hour of things to change in the natural; go forth in the spirit and begin to claim and believe that I am your Father; believe that this is the day of change, this is the day of renewal; Do not wait for something to shake you; Do not wait for something in the natural to start so that you can start; Do not wait for something in the natural to stop so you can go forward in me; Make that decision based on everything that I said that you are and were through the power of my word saith the Spirit of Grace.
