

Prophecies - The Family Prayer Center - 2013

Prophecy130828B*August 28th 2013*

Know that I am Well Pleased

More of an expression to you as a body, as a Father; Don't you know that I can say these things to you, because I have a voice to say these things and you yourself know how to hear my voice. But you bring me no greater joy; you bring me no greater joy than to yield as you've yielded tonight; let these things sink inside you. Know this that as you've heard so often the catalyst, the thing, the solvent, the very thing that brings all these things to pass is my love, my love in you and my love working through you saith the Spirit of the Lord. So love one another, love one another and pray for one another and pray that I be glorified in this house, not that this house be glorified, but that I be glorified in this house and I will bring these things to pass, but again I say to you as little ones, as my sons and daughters that as a Father it brings me no greater pleasure than to have you yield to me and not be stiff-necked but rather just a yes and yieldness that you've given me; know that I'm well pleased, saith the Spirit of the Lord. Hallelujah.