

Prophecies - The Family Prayer Center - 2013

Prophecy131120 November 20th 2013

I am Mostly after Your Loved Ones

I am, I am mostly after your loved ones for all these things that I'll do, I've done from the very beginning and you've seen enough, you're eyes have seen enough unaccustomed to like so many other of my body, so much other body you're eyes have seen enough to know that there's more out there and there's more power to be had, but know that at the end of all of this when I said that there was a more excellent way I meant that there was a more excellent way for you to have the power and the more excellent way for you to have the power was to walk into my love saith the Spirit of Grace. So I tell you that at the end of all of this is my love and at the end of all my love is to draw in your loved ones and to draw them in from the streets and from the highways and the byways and to compel them to come in. Do not look to the right or to the left at things that will come and things will go but stay in a place stay in that place that familiar place that I have built inside of you line on line and precept on precept. Know that that which I have promised to visit you will come to pass with all the authority that I can gather from you and everything that I have laid in you is in a secure place and you will not be destroyed by the wicked one, but yet you'll find a place to go higher and higher and higher and receive of mine and receive of every bit of the harvest, all of the harvest, all of the sheaves and all of the wheat that I'm calling into the Father's storehouse. You'll be able to harvest those and bring it to pass and nothing, nothing shall by any means harm you, saith the Spirit of Grace. Hallelujah Jesus.