I'm the God of all Breakthrough

I say unto you that I'm the God of all breakthroughs. You use the term "breakthrough" I've spoken it in my word at different times and different ways but I describe a place that a human being comes to when they are able to humble themselves and trust me. But my best for you is to live in a place of dominion that your whole life is a continual breakthrough always. Whenever he comes to put trash on or whenever he tries to build a citadel of fear, stronghold of fear and torment, my desire for you is to continually on every turn bring you to a place of dominion so that you're ruling, seated with him, as I said you were. So humble yourself under the mighty hand of God. For you to humble yourself is to place all trust on me. Ask of me and I'll show you, show you where it's that part of you that keeps making, keeps making their own way, pushing forward in their own strength and I'll not only show you where your strength is at; I'll show you where my strength is and how to replace and recline on me and find that faithfulness as I come to you day after day, strengthening nurturing.
