The Cost of Exultation

That cost for that cost of exultation there is a price to be paid; there is a place to go to and there is a supper to serve; there are places of waiting, of waiting. When I taught my apostles not to be like the Gentiles for they exercised authority upon each other and the cost of exultation that they see that they understand exultation to be one exercising the authority above another. But in my kingdom it's not so. In my kingdom the one that gets the place that finds the privilege of my hand being upon them is the one who finds the place of service in the quiet place behind the door. But the greatest place of exultation is not to be seen. It's not to be heard. It's not to have your voice lifted up on high or any one comment about what you know or what you can do. The greatest place is for me to visit you in that eternal existing place where stillness dictates the day and an absoluteness of intimacy tells you with all, with all defining without words even being spoken that my pleasure is upon you. Out of that place is true exultation. Out of that place comes the ministry of the Spirit by which can be poured through you uninterrupted, that which brings healing, that which brings deliverance, that which brings restoration. You'll fight; when you know that exultation is upon you, you'll in your own heart fight, fight not to be recognized. With no pretense you'll fight to hide behind the covering, the true exultation of Jesus. This is my exultation. This is what I told them from the beginning that there is none to be of themselves greater than the other, but the exultation came as they humble themselves and became a servant.
