I'm Still Your Father!

Now abideth faith, hope and love but the greatest of these, saith the Spirit of Grace, is love for surely there is a mortification message on this walk and that is one of my strong truths for you to walk into everything I am continually taking that which you have become and becoming that which you are through everything I placed inside of you, is the message, but know this before the modification message; before I ever asked you of your own self, never asking you of your own self to walk in modification, I approached you as a Father when you had no strength. My introduction to you into salvation was not your self-existence mortification but it was the life that I offered through an unconditional love. Know this that I am first love. I am first love and I love each and every one of you with a love that you cannot present tense imagine. Know this that even in your weaknesses I am with you if you'll cry out to me if you'll call out to me as Father. I don't change identity after you're introduced to me or even five years or ten years down the road. I still am who I was from the introduction. The door was Him, Christ; His unconditional love that if you would come in then a walk would begin. I do not change after you have met me. I do not become one at the beginning and another at the end. I am still Father. I will help you in your weaknesses. I will help you in your infirmities. I will bring you past your failures, saith the Spirit of Grace. Look to me. Allow that which I am from the very beginning to become the fullness in your life as you walk this out, saith the Spirit of Grace. I love you. I desire to fellowship with you. I am your strength. I am your mortification. I am your change. You cannot do this apart from me, saith the Spirit of Grace. But if you know who I was and who I am from the beginning, I do not change. I am always the same. I will grow you up past your weaknesses but even in my rebukes and even in my asking you to change, I never change. I'm still your Father. I desire to love you past your weaknesses; look to me in your faults; look to me in your failures; rejoice in the midst of them knowing that I always love you and I cannot change that love nor will I ever. You are my children and I love you as a Father loves their children. No weakness, no fault changes that love that I have for you this day. Rejoice in me and be glad that I cannot change. I love you children!
