For I'm calling you out, saith the Spirit of Grace as a body, as individual believers. I'm calling you and I'm wooing you, petitioning you, desiring of you as a lover as one who desires to be loved. Come in my presence in this year like you never have been before. For I am no respecter of persons, saith the Spirit of Grace and as you've heard the testimonies through the years of those patriarchs and forefathers and great men of faith. Whose presence brought men under conviction because my presence was so strong upon them; Aspire to this place. Spend time in my presence. Press the envelope of my presence. Go to places because I can tell you children there are places that you have never ever begin to taste in my presence that is available for you. You're striving in yourself. Even the want to doesn't bring you there, but it as you spend time in my presence. My grace changes you from glory to glory. For I desire of people, that my presence is upon them 24 hours a day all through the night. In all the things of life and all things that are carnal, mundane usually without anointing that the world may know and that the world may sense my presence. This is the revival that you speak of. Challenge yourself for the want to. Challenge yourself for places. Do not look to the right or to the left to see who's going with you. Not even a spouse. Do not look to see, not a child, not a Father, not a Mother. You choose yourself and I'll reward you individually and the reward is my presence. The reward is my sustaining presence. The reward is the fearlessness that comes where perfect love casts out all fear. This will be your substance against all trials and this will be that which flows out of you for those who will drink of the river that is within you, saith the Spirit of Grace. Do not wait for man to exalt you. I desire to exalt you. I decided to place my hand upon you. None of you, not even the one speaking present tense knows the depth of what is available. In my presence there is fullness of joy. In my presence there places that up till this point I've wanted you there but you've not been able to come or you have not provided a place for yourself to come. Come, saith the Spirit of Grace. Come and drink of this water and be filled; be filled.
