The World Needs You to Need Me

Prophecy200524a – May 24, 2020

The world has fooled you, My children. For you have thought of yourself that, “If I go into this, if I go into this I’ll be thought of as being ridiculous and set apart and something unrelatable.” But I say unto you the world is not looking for what they already know. Their fads are turning them to suicide. Their fads and their buzzwords and their cute sayings and their pops have no answers for them. And though they mock religion, they’re looking for something in the earth that stands head and shoulders in truth. They’re crying out. Many laugh and have many sarcastic things to say concerning the church, and yet inside of them you’ll find that there is a wasteland of fear and death and trembling on the inside. Give them hope! Don’t try to be like them, but give them hope! Teach them My sayings, and learn My sayings in your homes, says the Lord.

Speak My Word one to another. Rehearse My Word. I said that I would write it upon the tablets of your heart, but you must be the one who looks in. You must look into My Word that I might write it upon your heart. My Son, when He stood in the wilderness and quoted the Word against the tempter, it was not because I just brought it to His memory of something He did not know, He Himself had studied those very Scriptures as a child. And then in the hour of temptation I brought those Scriptures back to Him, that He would stand. You will not be able to stand, but you will be washed away if you do not go into My Word. If you do not know My Scripture, you will be washed away with the rising tide that sweeps one out into the ocean.

Do not think by association, because you rub shoulders with someone that is spiritual, that you yourself will be kept. Did I not say, “Though hand join in hand, yet the wicked will not go unpunished”? Do not think because you’re close to someone as a family member or someone as a friend who walks with God that you yourself, by their commitment to God, that you will be saved from perilous times and from fears and anxieties. I’m asking every one of you to go into Me. I’m asking every one of you to find your place, your spiritual place. And I know as a Father that all those are different for every single, even as I gave you all a separate fingerprint, everyone’s spiritual fingerprint is different. I know the season of your life, I know the responsibilities, but I will help you in these things. I will supply the time, the strength, the energy, and the separation. I’m calling you. I’m very jealous over you as kings and priests to come aside. Let someone else do your job if necessary. Pay someone to do your job so you can come over and do My job which I'm asking you to do, says the Spirit of Grace.

The revival is now, but I'm asking you to come apart. I'll use all of you from the least to the greatest. When you lay your hands on people or when you speak a word or send a word, you'll get a reply back that something has happened. The world has seduced you, and you don't even know it. And though you love Me and I love you for it, you do not understand the levels that are already camped against your mind. But as I said in a former prophecy, the further you go, the more that will be revealed and the more that is revealed to you, the further that you'll go. Pray for the church and pray for yourself, that the veils will be lifted off.
