

Prophecy – The Family Prayer Center

I'm Counting on You

Prophecy201209 – December 9, 2020

And I say unto you, My beloved, and to My intercessors and those who are willing to lift up solemn prayers of intercession out of humility and not out of boast, that you pray for My backslidden Church, says the Spirit of Grace. For those in My Body that are still part of My Body and yet go unrepentant, says the Spirit of Grace, know this, that every time that My Spirit contacts them, or every wave of anointing that passes by them of any ability for them to hear, if they do not turn inward, then they turn outward, and their heart puts on another layer of hardness against the truth. I would that all would come into Me. Mercy rejoices against judgement, says the Spirit of Grace. But know this, as surely as there is mercy, there will be judgement, says the Spirit of Grace.

I'm asking you to intercede past this point in time, as in [this] service. But in your private life, ask Me to go to them. For I desire to stir them up and open their eyes once again to see, and not come under My judgement. But understand this, that if they will not turn, the Church will also become your persecutors in the days ahead. That which is called Christ and the Body of Christ will turn on itself and begin to devour itself against those [that hold to My truth]. As Ishmael went after Isaac, as the flesh desired to devour the spirit, know this, that some of the greatest persecution in the days ahead will be by those who are called Christians. But pray in this hour. Pray that I'll be able to turn many. For many will not be turned. Thus will the scripture be fulfilled: There will be a great "falling away." But at the same time, there will be orchestrated by My Spirit an army that I have continued to prophesy to you, and spoke through My scriptures that would come about. This army will be endowed with signs and wonders, says the Spirit of the Lord.

This is the hour of intimacy. This is the hour of the calling away of the beloved, and all who have ears to hear. [Pastor Bronc: Help me to say that, Lord.] For I've given you an assignment in the Spirit, to spend as much time in prayer as you possibly can, giving yourself over. But in the same way, I desire that nothing be done out of a sense of legalism. But I desire all things to be done out of intimacy. The remedy, the recipe for being able to spend your hours, or any amount of time that I've asked you to spend without a sense of legalism, is to seek that place of intimacy, and to know Me face to face. For it's out of face-to-face encounters that I desire to have with you on a daily basis, that I'll turn dry lands into wet places watered by My Spirit. Intimacy is the order of the day.

Fellowship in My Spirit, intermittent with tongues and My Word. But do nothing, do nothing out of mechanics. Do all things out of that which is fueled by My Spirit, says the Lord, saving some by compassion, as I said in the book of Jude, “On some having compassion,” that your prayers of intercession will make a difference. And if not, then the final place will be for Me to go to them, and [to enact] a final stand of judgement for them so that they have the opportunity to be turned, says the Spirit of the Lord. When I said that many will fall away, I was not just speaking about that they would fall away to a backslidden place, yet remain with candles lit on the inside. But I was prophesying of a Church and people that were once in the Church that would go all the way back into darkness, and lose all hope of eternity. Therefore, let your stand be an avid stand, full of compassion and full of grace. Allow Me [in] your prayer times on a weekly basis to take you past your family, and pray at large that God would move on cities and churches and places. I’m asking you with authority, do this thing, because I desire to reach My Body. I desire to save many. I’m counting on you, says the Spirit of Grace. I’m counting on you.