Your Divine Destiny

Prophecy230602 – June 02, 2023

For divine destiny, says the Spirit of the Lord, is in front of you all, and choice after choice is given to you. Some relent and go their separate way, but those who choose will be part of the outpouring of this hour. Not only will it touch their lives and penetrate their lives in places they didn't even think possible, but healings [will take place]. Healings not only to their bodies, but in places of emotions and deep things that've not been reckoned with.

And I'll come, says the Spirit of the Lord. For it's My desire to prepare you as a bride and prepare you where you're at. To send you in as salt and light in the earth, and to the workplace, and to the force of this world to gather up a peculiar people that are different. And yet, the world will look unto you and say, "I desire what they have." For I desire even now to begin to direct the compass of your life. And I brought you here to this place for this purpose, to begin even further in the walk that I have begun a good time ago to solicit in your life. So, hear the words. Listen to My Spirit, because I'm calling you apart, says the Spirit of Grace.
