My Blind Servants

Prophecy231227 – December 27, 2023

Who is as blind as My servant? says the Spirit of Grace. And who is as deaf as My servant? For I've called you in a day and hour to go forth. And against all circumstances and against all things that would come to contradict your assignment, I've asked you, and I'm coming to you to bring forth a blindness against those things and a deafness against those things, only seeing that which I have given to you from the very days of your conception, says the Spirit of Grace. That you'd turn a deaf ear to all discouragement that says, "When will this happen?" But all you know is the promise inside of you that it will. And I'm asking you to viciously, ferociously, and with all vigor on the inside of your spirit to pursue those things. And again, laser focused, without all contradiction, says the Spirit of the Lord.

For in these days, know this, that I'm raising up a standard in the earth. And all those who enter into it will be those who'll take no acknowledgement of those things that come to contradict. Do not look at the crowds. Do not look at the personal contradictions concerning those things against your body, or against your emotions, or against your finances, or any part of your life, says the Spirit of Grace. For I've given you a mandate. And know this of surety and of great deliberateness, you'll enter into this. But I'm giving you this assignment knowing that My servants in the earth are those who are blind against all contradictions, or deaf to hear those things in which the enemy or the flesh could pour out against you to stop you in this hour.

So, rejoice, says the Spirit of the Lord. Rejoice in knowing that this grace is upon you, and as you go forward, that I'm with you to bring forth great encouragement. That you'll see only and hear only that which I speak and that which I put in front of you, says the Spirit of Grace.
